AirBed&Breakfast

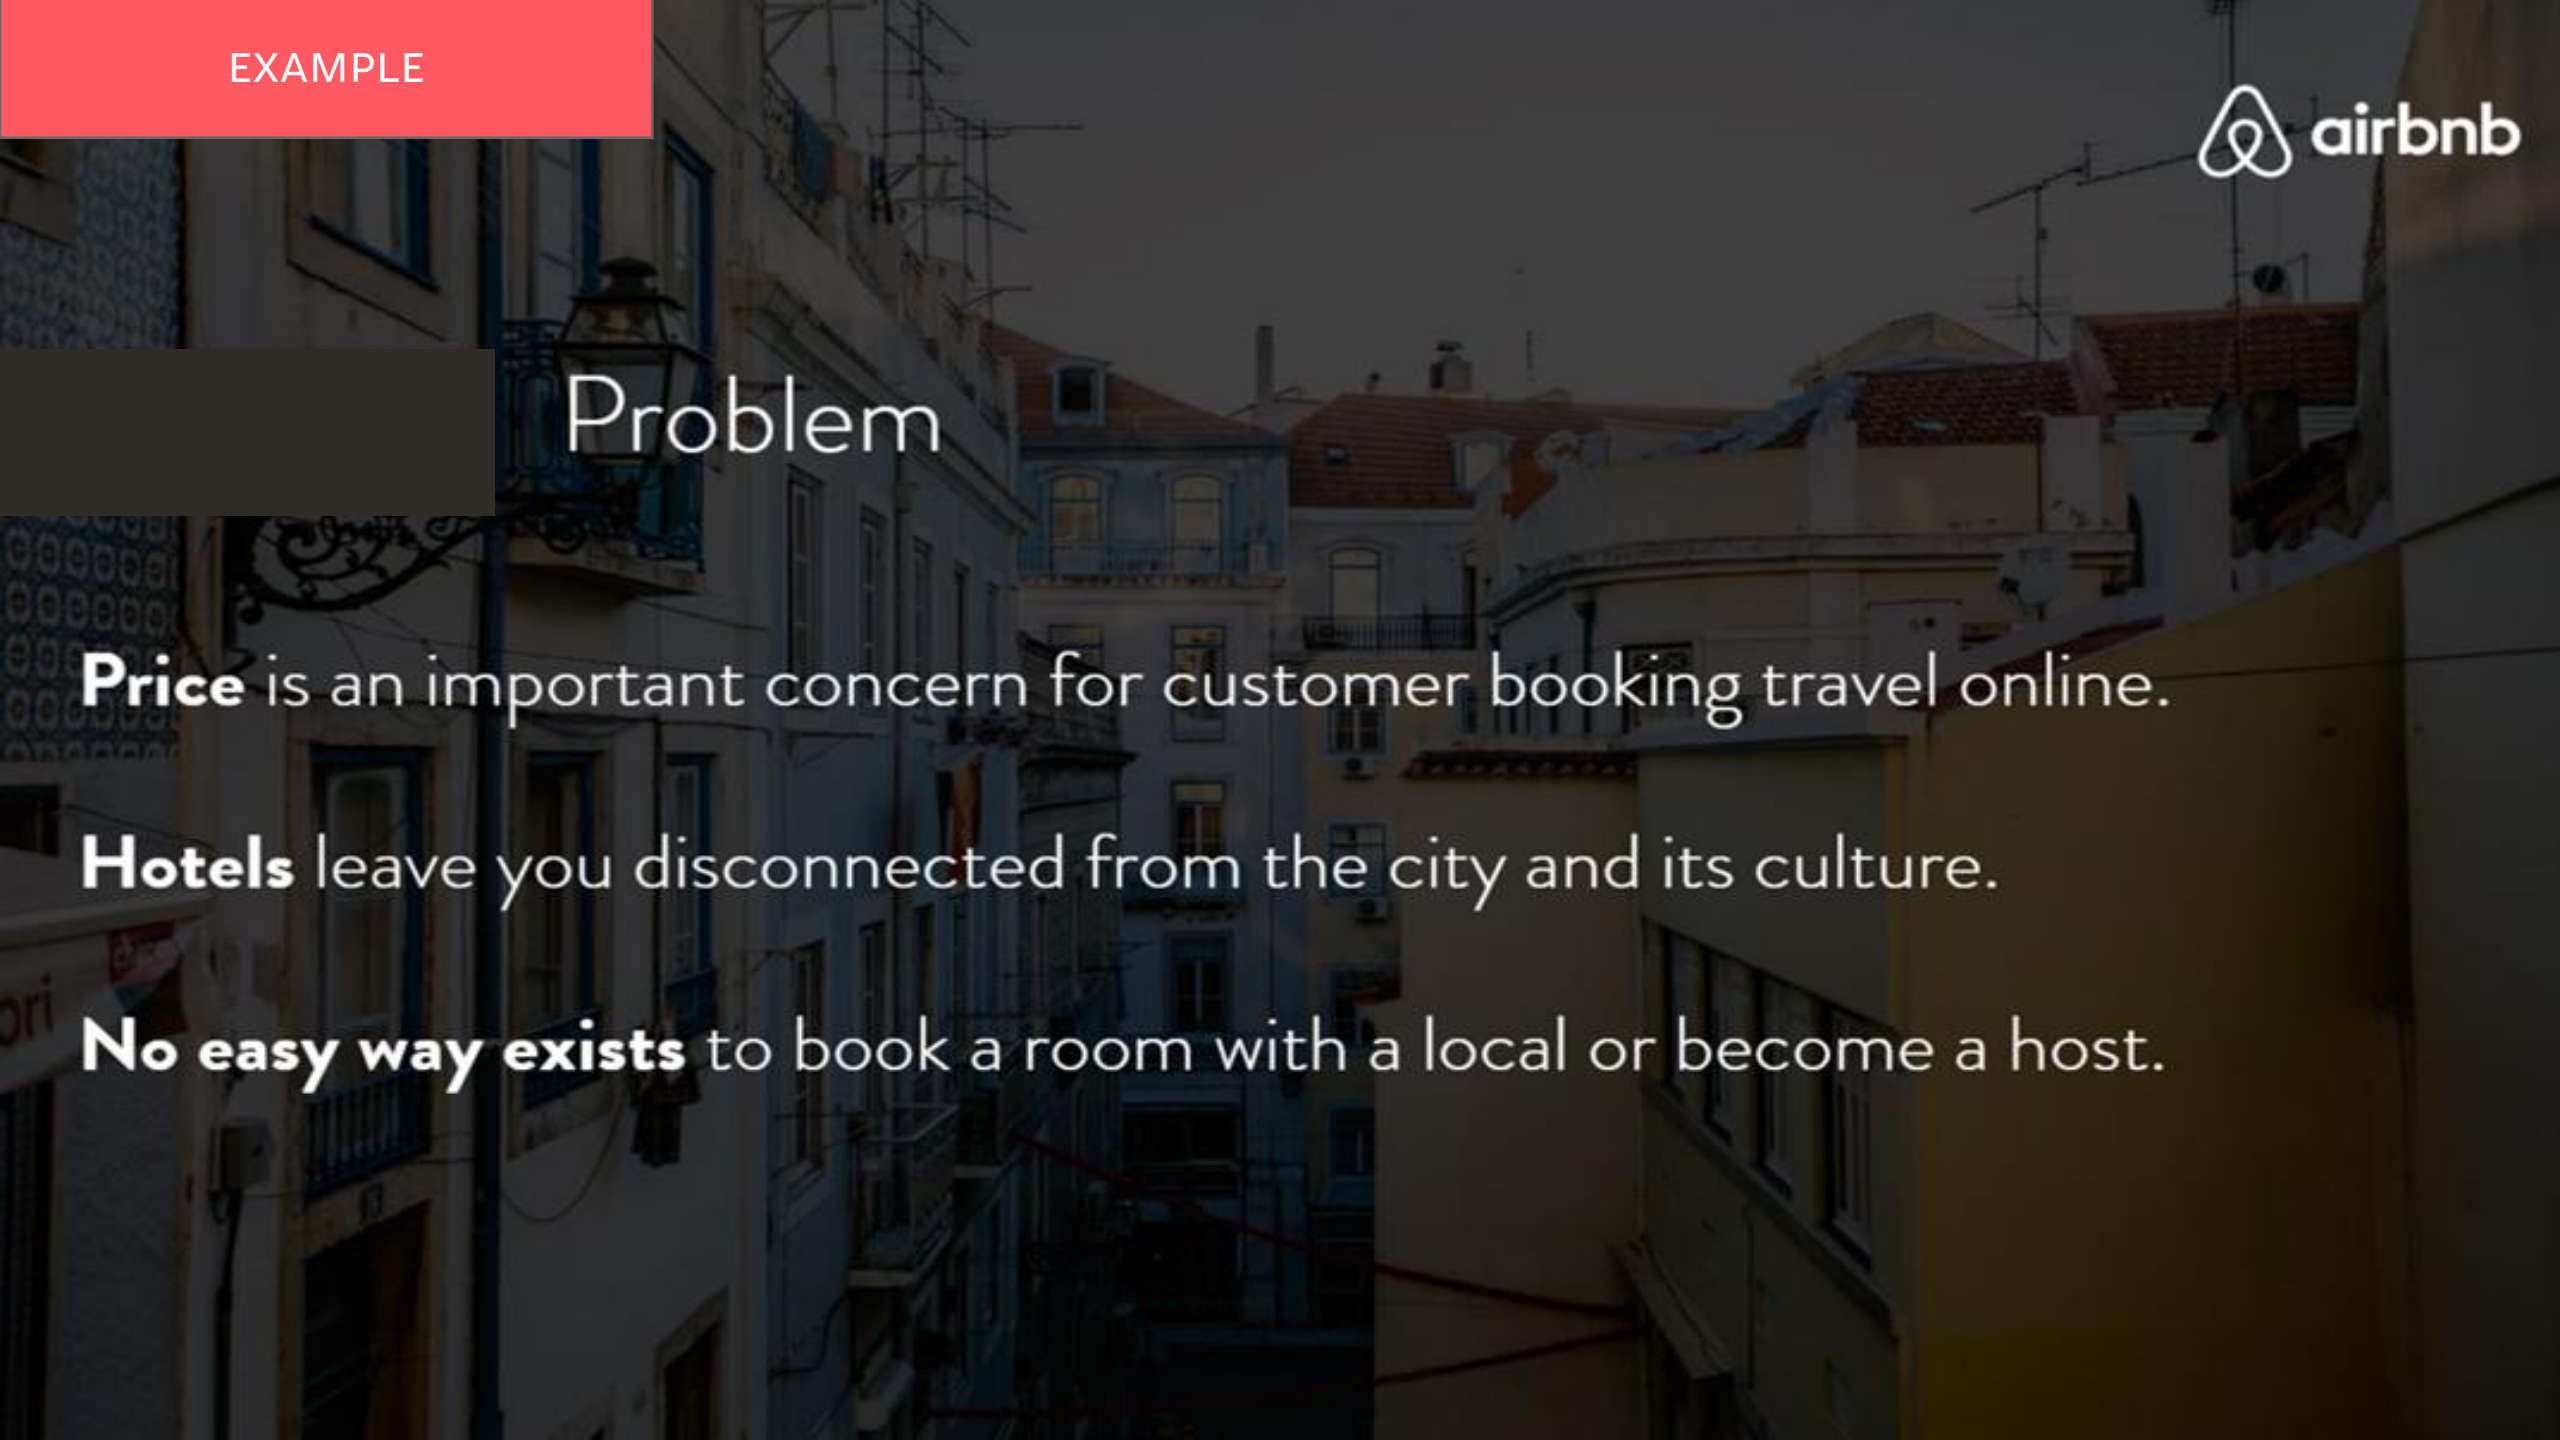

Book rooms with locals, rather than hotels.

PROBLEM

SHOULD COVER THE FOLLOWING

- Pain of customer - Describe the pain of the customer (or the customer's customer)
- Problem should be missing critical – state any user or market research to back claims
- Outline how the customer addresses the issue today and why current solutions don't work.
- Key problems - quantify the issue - Is it costing the customer time, money, frustration...
- Define the pain point. ($ amount, time lost, etc.)
- Be clear if its new problem or old problem where you are trying to get disruptive solution
- Mention what they are currently doing and how your product/service is a better solution

EXAMPLE

airbnb

Problem

Price is an important concern for customer booking travel online.

Hotels leave you disconnected from the city and its culture.

No easy way exists to book a room with a local or become a host.

EXAMPLE

Problem

Most cabs in 2008 use aging & inefficient technology.

Taxi-monopolies reduce the quality of service.

No GPS coordination between client/driver.

SOLUTION

SHOULD COVER THE FOLLOWING

- Value Proposition - Demonstrate your company’s value proposition to make the customer’s life better
- Provide Use Cases, customer insights, case studies
- Why things are better now that the problem has been solved.
- Solution needs to be graphically or visually represented
- Focus on business benefit or value to customer and not just what product does –
- e.g. save time, money, get revenue, increase experience?

MARKET SIZE

SHOULD COVER THE FOLLOWING

- Customer Profiling - Identify/profile the customer you cater to
- TAM – Total Addressable Market , SAM – Serviceable Available Market , SOM - Serviceable Obtainable Market
- Mention the size of the opportunity in the markets you are planning to address - Provide bottoms-up market sizing: the number of potential customers and the price of the product sold into those customers
- Be clear about where and who is going to buy your product/service and how much would they pay for it
- This section should therefore give a sense about how many customers are there in your target market and at what price are you selling your product to them, what is the revenue potential if all of them were to buy (not that they will, but this is to give an indication of what the size of the market is)
- e.g. In India, there are ____ number of parents who will buy our service at Rs/$_____ per year. This translates into a market potential of Rs/$_____ per year. In year 3, we plan to tap US and Canada, and the size of the opportunity there is Rs/$_____ (No. of parents _____ x Price per year_____)
